

ACS Younger Chemists Committee (YCC) Offers Leadership Development Award

Are you taking on or pursuing a position of leadership?
Would you like to develop the skills needed to be a successful leader?

If so, you should apply for a YCC leadership Development Award!

YCC sponsors an awards program providing funding for ACS members who are 35 years and younger to travel to and participate in the ACS Leadership Institute, Jan. 22-24, 2010 at the Omni Ft. Worth Hotel in Ft. Worth, TX. The award covers transportation, lodging and meals. Fifteen award winners will be identified.

Participants will explore the behaviors and characteristics exhibited by effective leaders at any level. Potential leadership opportunities, both with in and outside the workplace, will be discussed and personal plans for improving leadership skills will be developed. Participants will also work along side other ACS local, regional, and national leaders who are looking to strengthen their own leadership, management and communication skills. This is an excellent opportunity to network and build the qualities that successful leaders possess!

The application deadline is Thursday, October 1, 2009
Application form and further information about the award is available at www.acsycc.org

American Chemical Society

ACS Younger Chemists Committee (YCC) Offers Leadership Development Award

Are you taking on or pursuing a position of leadership?
Would you like to develop the skills needed to be a successful leader?

If so, you should apply for a YCC leadership Development Award!

YCC sponsors an awards program providing funding for ACS members who are 35 years and younger to travel to and participate in the ACS Leadership Institute, Jan. 22-24, 2010 at the Omni Ft. Worth Hotel in Ft. Worth, TX. The award covers transportation, lodging and meals. Fifteen award winners will be identified.

Participants will explore the behaviors and characteristics exhibited by effective leaders at any level. Potential leadership opportunities, both with in and outside the workplace, will be discussed and personal plans for improving leadership skills will be developed. Participants will also work along side other ACS local, regional, and national leaders who are looking to strengthen their own leadership, management and communication skills. This is an excellent opportunity to network and build the qualities that successful leaders possess!

The application deadline is Thursday, October 1, 2009
Application form and further information about the award is available at www.acsycc.org

American Chemical Society

